Downloading Directly from the Kodak Camera

1. Open the top panel and slide out the camera’s USB connector.

2. Plug the camera’s USB into the USB port on the computer and turn on the camera.

3. The camera has Kodak imaging software built into it, when you connect the camera and turn it on, it will want you to install the software. If you are on your own computer this will not be a problem, but if you are in one of the campus computer labs, you will not have rights to install the program. When the “AutoPlay” window opens, select the “Open folder to view files”.

4. The images and videos you took should be located in the DCIM folder. Double-click on the folder icon to open it to see the files.
